In 1898, fourteen years before the Titanic sank, a novelist, Morgan Robertson, wrote a novel about an imaginary ship. It was the newest, biggest, most luxurious ship in the world. It was travelling across the Atlantic to New York on its first voyage and was carrying some of the richest people in the world. On a freezing cold night in April it hit an iceberg and sank. There weren't enough lifeboats for everyone so most of the passengers and crew drowned.

6. Read the following passage then answer the questions:

' Sleep is a powerful influence on our lives. The traditional theory about sleep is that our brain needs to rest for several hours to refresh itself and to "file" in our memory everything that happened to us during the day. If we are not allowed to sleep, we eventually die.

"However Ray Meddis, a scientist at University, has a fascinating new theory. He suggests that we don't really need to sleep at all. We sleep only because our brain is

"programmed" to make us do so. According to Or Meddis, the "tiredness" we feel at the end of the day is produced by a chemical mechanism in the brain which makes us sleep. We are "programmed" to feel "sleepy" at midnight, even if we have spent the day relaxing or doing nothing. He believes that the unpleasant symptoms we suffer when we don't sleep enough are not because we have not rested but because we have disobeyed our brain's programming. But he believes that if scientists could "turn off" the sleep mechanism in our brain, we could live completely normal lives without sleeping.

So is sleeping a waste of time? Even Dr Meddis does not deny the great psychological value of sleep, and he asks us, "If scientists invented a pill which keeps you awake for ever, would you take it?"

A. Answer the following questions:
